

Architecture as a Communicative Medium
ARCC Journal, Spring 2008

Published by:

Architectural Research Centers Consortium
ARCC Journal
Housed at the Architecture Department, Tyler School of Art
Temple University
Philadelphia, PA 19122

www.arccweb.org/journal

No part of this journal issue may be used or reproduced in any manner without written permission from the publisher, except in the context of reviews.

ISBN #

Editors:
J. Brooke Harrington
Kate Wingert-Playdon
Anijo Mathew

Contents

Editorial

Architecture as a Communicative Medium by Anijo Mathew

Peer Reviewed Papers

On dependencies between architecture and media: considering remote work by Mike Christenson

An Embodied Architecture by Frances Downing, Upali Nanda, Narongpon Laiprakobsup, and Shima B. Mohajeri

Intuition as Design Dialogue: Discovering a Language beyond Words by Randall Teal

Invited Papers

The Planetary Collegium: Master Plan for Distributed Mixed Reality Campus by Peter Anders

Learning from Beirut: From Modernism to Contemporary Architecture by Elie G. Haddad

Semiotics of making: beginnings of a theoretical frame by Christopher Monson